6 - What was the most valuable aspect of this course?

Response Rate 4/14 (28.57%)

- Everything
- The most valuable aspect of this course was using R. I was intrigued with coding and expected to have knowledge in using this application but the way the class turned out, it did not go well.
- Nothing, this class was extremely challenging and difficult.
- N/A

7 - What was the least valuable aspect of this course?

Response Rate 4/14 (28.57%)

- Nothing
- The least valuable aspect was that the professor is very inconsistent with his lectures. The first day he skimmed through a bunch of slides without giving a clear explanation of the material he was trying to teach us. The second meeting he started writing his lecture notes on the board and the class was still confused. We tried asking him questions because we still are not getting what he is trying to teach us but even the most simplest method of teaching, he failed to explain his material clearly to us. By the third meeting, everyone gave up trying to reason with him. He vaguely taught us how to use R. I think R is a valuable program to use but he failed to teach us the concept and the basic use of it. I do not understand how someone can give an assignment on something he went over. The class did their best to do the assignments he assigned and thankfully he changed the final to a presentation.
- I'm not sure what i was taught
- N/A

8 - How can this course be improved?

Response Rate 5/14 (35.71%)

- This was best
- begin the course with recognizing the familiarity of the topics to all students is not at the same level and adjust the material accordingly. building a strong foundation fort he students and not assuming they know what it being taught would be helpful as the course progresses.
- This course can be improved if the professor was more enthusiastic in his lectures instead of being monotonic. He also needs to level with his students to see where they are struggling and what they understand. I get most schools don't do this a lot but this institution has a reputation of instructors and students building some kind of relationship and interaction a lot. That is where the leveling down with students and understanding comes from.
- By having an instructor who knows what they are teaching.

9 - Use this space for additional comments:

Response Rate 2/14 (14.29%)

- extremely knowledgable and a nice professor, the material in this course is extremely difficult. Grasping the basic understanding is hard, therefore I wish the delivery of the course topics and concepts were explained a bit more clearly. I feel this would have been something of greater benefit and improve the class grades
